They provide peer-to-peer practical and clinical discussions with HCPs or support and assist patients with strong communications delivered with empathy and understanding. Five key areas where Clinical Educators play a significant role are:

1. Adherence – identify and overcome any barriers for use
2. Administration – foster continued and proper delivery technique
3. Appropriate Use – influence appropriate prescribing decisions, identify appropriate patients
4. Access – aid in account access, liaise for reimbursement questions

5. Awareness – increase awareness of company and mission, increase awareness of disease and treatment options
